

Planning for the Future

Have you made a plan for your future after dairy farming?

Many people put off succession planning because they think it is too complicated and difficult.

This interactive day will start you on the path to creating a succession plan that will work for you and your family.

After the session you will have:

- An understanding of what succession means for you and your family.
- An insight into each generation's perspectives and issues.
- An understanding of how and when to start talking about succession planning.
- Tools to start creating your own plan.
- A strategy to move your succession journey forward.

This day is based on real-life cases and is presented by experts in the field from Gallie Miles Lawyers, who have years of experience helping families to successfully complete their succession journey.

This process affects the whole family, so make the most of the opportunity and bring everyone along!
